Berlin Report Indicates That Noske

From Cabinet and That Socialists are Winning ConcessionsBy United Press Leased Wire
Berlin—Karl Leigien, head of the Berlin labor unions, late last night demanded resignation of the entire cabinet of President Ebert.
Radical workers have decided to continue the general strike unless the government complies with the demands.

Berlin—Allied representatives here
tonight warned the independent socialist leaders that they cannot hope for support in credits and funds if they persist in a strike tending to Germany's ruin.Food is becoming scarcer daily.
The meat supply, according to government officials, is sufficient to last only until mid-April.It was understood the radicals have been informed that no aid may be expected from America unless they offer assistance instead of obstruction
to the Ebert government.It was believed the Allied suggestions will have considerable weight in forcing the radicals to abandon their most extreme demands. The situation in Berlin seemed to be clearing tonight.A German leader saw in the return of the "fat war profiteers" to the lobbies of the big Berlin hotels, a most hopeful sign. He pointed out that they disappeared during the fighting
and would not be back if there were any danger now.Strike Near End
The general strike, which radicals
persist in continuing, cannot last
more than a few days longer, the government confidently predicted.The radicals, however, declared the workers will remain out until all the objectionable members of the Ebert administration have resigned.Ellis L. Dresel, head of the American mission here, called on the government late yesterday and reported satisfaction at the defeat of the von Kapp insurrection and re-establishment of the constitutional regime.Dresel said he was sure the United States government would view with disapproval all attempts to revolutionize the government unconstitutionally. This might imperil the restoration of good relations between Germany and America, Dresel said,
and seriously interfere with the pro-
visioning of Germany.Plans for the amelioration of Germany's present unfavorable economic situation could not be carried out if the government of President Ebert
were overturned, Dresel intimated.Barricade in Streets Striking workmen and militia
clashed at Johannstadt, a Berlin suburb, late yesterday. The workmen disarmed the militiamen and beat them.Regular troops came to the militia's aid and violent fighting followed.
Several were killed. Regular troops were said to have captured one group
of workmen, lined them up and shot
them.All members of the Ebert cabinet reached the city last night. It was planned to have the reichstag meet Wednesday.Dispatches from Leipzig said the town was far from quiet after bloody fighting for several days. Ebert troops controlled the city and the general strike was ended.

Noske Forced Out
London—Reports of new radical successes continued to come from Germany today.Gustav Noske, President Ebert's minister of defense, has been forced to resign, a Berlin dispatch said.
Noske was reported to have tendered
his resignation several days ago.
Ebert only accepted it when the demand of radical workers, backed by the Left socialist element, no longer
could be ignored.Other resignations of cabinet
members may be expected, the dispatch said. Ebert has promised complete re-organization, with the labor unions participating.The situation throughout Germany
is still chaotic, according to semi-official advisers here. Encouraged by reports of the successful communist uprising in the Westphalian industrial district, the extreme independent socialists were said to have delivered a new ultimatum to the Ebert group after their first demands had been granted.The ultimatum demanded still further concessions to the radicals.
Squeeze the Government
Semi-official advisers here indicated that the radicals are determined to put the screws to the government,
squeezing from it the utmost concessions while they have the opportunity.Advisers, said to come from high Allied officials in Germany, who quoted members of the Ebert government, admitted that the government was alarmed at the rapid spread of communism in the Ruhr industrial district. It was pointedAllies Also

Washington, D. C.—Efforts to show that alleged loss of life, ships and money
by prolongation of the war was the fault of the Allies as much as of the United States were made today by the democratic senators cross-examining Rear Admiral Sims.Sims has charged that navy department inefficiency prolonged hostilities.
Senator Trammell, Florida, democrat, declared that ship losses early in the war were due as much to failure
of the Allies to adopt the convoy system as to failure of the United States to send anti-submarine craft
to Europe promptly."The trouble was that the navy department didn't go into the war after it was declared," Sims replied.Sen. Glass, Virginia, democrat, repeated in a letter read today his assertion that Sims "old him the armistice had to be agreed to because Pershing's
supplies broke down."Admiral Sims believed the battle was undertaken in face of military
opinion that it was an impossible operation except with very severe sacrifices, according to a letter he is said
to have written two days before the armistice was signed to Admiral Bayley
of the royal naval forces and read today by Senator Pittman. Sims stated in a letter that supplies broke down
and horses had to be slaughtered to supply troops.RENTERS OPEN ATTACK
ON GOTHAM LANDLORDSBy United Press Leased Wire
New York—Rent serfs advanced on Albany in battle formation today.Five hundred men and women, bearing the figurative scars of continued
"gouging" by their landlords, entered today at Grand Central station for the capital to urge passage of numerous bills designed to curb profiting.Determination of the tenants to insure passage of the rent bills crystallized as the result of a mass meeting of landlords here Sunday, at which a decision was reached that twenty per cent net profit on apartments is "not enough."The landlords also planned to have at least 500 representatives in Albany
to oppose the anti-profiteering bills.The tenants formed the van guard
of the greatest army of lobbyists ever to go to Albany at one time. A number of teachers were bound for the capital to urge enactment of legislation providing wage increases for them. Several labor groups were opposed to the bill designed to establish a replica of the industrial court instituted by Governor Allen of Kansas.WANTS QUICK ACTION TO ENFORCE PEACE TREATYBy United Press Leased Wire
Paris—An immediate meeting of Allied leaders to decide upon energetic steps to insure enforcement of the treaty of Versailles was urged by Andre Tardieu, former commissioner of Franco-American relations in an interview here today."The treaty already appears to have been violated as much as any treaty
could be," Tardieu said. "It is urged that the Allied governments meet to decide upon drastic steps."Tardieu believed the difficulties in Allied-German relations will continue to increase rapidly until the Allies decide upon a definite plan of action at once and enforce it firmly.Enforcement of the treaty practically has been left to France, Tardieu said, and France's position has been weakened by the moving of the peace conference to London.The recent intermittent meeting
of the conference have been characterized neither by firmness nor "unity
of direction," Tardieu believed.HAUERT COMPANY FILES INCORPORATION PAPERSThe Hauer Hardware company
filed articles of incorporation with A.
G. Koch, register of deeds, this morning. The capital stock is $25,000 and the incorporators are J. J. Hauer, W.
F. Hauer, and Roy G. Hauer. The purpose of the company is to carry on a general merchandise business
and particularly hardware and automobile accessories.out that the government is hampered in its operations against the radicals who hold several towns here, by the fact that the peace treaty forbids President Ebert to send armed forces into this district.Latest dispatches here indicated that the Berlin socialists do not wish to overthrow the government
but will become content to force from
it concessions through which the radicals hope to so strengthen their position that they will in time come
to power by peaceful means.Heavy Casualties

A Conference Of Coal Men

By United Press Leased Wire

Washington.—The text of the president's letter calling miners and operators into joint conference follows:"I am transmitting to you herewith a copy of the report and award
of the bituminous coal commission
appointed to adjust matters in controvery between bituminous coal
miners and operators of the country.
"In accordance with instructions
in my letter of appointment to the commission and memoranda attached thereto and the agreements by mine workers and operators to abide by the report and award of the commission, this report and award is the basis upon which the wage schedule agreements between the mine workers and operators shall be made."Operators and miners should,
therefore, make arrangements for
convening the necessary joint conferences as soon as possible to make such changes in the terms, provisions and conditions, mining rate
and wage schedules as are set forth in this report and award."It is essential to the public welfare that the agreements be concluded at the earliest date practicable
so that the uncertainty as to fuel supply may be ended and that consumers may be able to make contracts
for their coal supply and also that the recommendations contained in the report as to the storage of coal
by consumers may be of service this year."I also inclose as information copy
of minority report by one member of the commission as to the wage for miners, though dissenting as to the wage for day workers, and in particular and part dissents on the other points. I regret that the members of the commission were not unanimous on all points as I had expression of the hope they would but the report of the majority is none the less the report of the commission and binding
as such."I take it that neither party will raise any question, and I am sure that no question can properly be raised, as to the binding character of the award,
notwithstanding the fact that it is not unanimous. On December 10, 1919,
the miners, without qualification,
agreed to submit all questions to a decision of the commission of three persons to be appointed by me, the report of such a commission will be made the basis of a new wage agreement. This definite and unqualifiedacceptance did not in any way limit the power which any such commission is always understood to have, in the absence of agreement to the contrary,
that it may reach a decision by majority vote. The acceptance of the operators was equally unqualified on this point. This condition was in no
wise changed by my subsequent action on December 19, in expressing a belief as to the desirability of importance of unanimous action."My appointment of the commission indicated that the power to fix
the price of coal would not be conferred upon the commission except
for its unanimous action and therefore it is clear that such power to fix
coal prices should not be conferred on the commission."I have carefully considered the question whether the war power of the Lever act should be temporarily
invoked by me, despite the absence of any action of the commission so recommended, to continue temporarily in control of prices and have concluded that it is not expedient for me to exercise any such price fixing
control so that, on and after April 1, 1920, no government maximum price will be enforced."There is at present no provision of law for fixing new coal prices for peace time purposes and unless and until some grave emergency shall arise, which in my judgment has a relation to the emergency purposes of the Lever act, I would not feel justified in fixing coal prices with reference to future conditions of production."I am aware that at present, the result of the shortage created by the coal strike and of the consequent interference with transportation and as a result, also of the exceptionally unfavorable winter, the demand for coal continues active. I desire to impress upon the coal operators the extreme importance not only of their complying to the fullest extent with the laws against combination in restraint of trade and against profiteering, but also of exerting themselves affirmatively to prevent exacting of unreasonable prices for coal.
I am sure the public fully appreciates the desirability where practicable, of leaving commercial transactions untrammelled but at the same time I am satisfied the public will find ways to protect itself if such liberal policy shall appear to result in unreasonably high prices."BITTER ENDERS OPEN DRIVE IN CONNECTICUTBy United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—Party politicians
have their eyes today on the republicans in Connecticut, who meet in state convention at New Haven tonight and tomorrow.The interest lies in the fact that it is the first test of the strength of the republican "irreconcilables" in making republican platforms conform to their ideas on the treaty issue.Senator Brandegee, one of the most active of the "irreconcilables" is to preside over the convention and deliv-

Brandegee has his way, the resolu-

of the most gigantic liquor smuggling cases since federal prohibition became effective.Five coal cars with false bottoms
built in, were brought here from Canada with approximately $150,000
worth of whiskey, federal agents
said. Under present "bootlegging" prices the cargo would have been worth at least a million dollars, they said. Scrap iron was piled on top of the whiskey cargoes, agents charged,

Government Retains Control of Dis-

Washington.—President Wilson
today called miners and operators to a joint conference to revise wage
schedules on the basis recommended
in the majority report of the coal commission.At the same time the president issued an executive order to take effect April 1 abolishing all orders relating to coal prices issued prior to March 1 when the railroads were returned to their owners. The effect of this order is to leave coal distribution and control of coal exports under government supervision, but
to knock out all price regulations issued under authority of the Lever act.The White House also made public both the majority and minority reports of the coal commission which

ings of the bituminous coal wage
controversy.Wants Early Meeting
The majority report was signed by Henry Robinson and Rembrandt

minority report is signed by John P.

operators to conference Wilson asked
them to meet at the earliest date
possible and agree on a settlement so coal consumers might have information to enable them to make con-

operators both the majority and minority reports of the coal com-

Chicago—Women delegates to the republican national convention here
in June may hold the balance of power
in selecting the republican presidential nominee, republican women
leaders predicted here today.One hundred women are expected to be elected to the convention, according to Mrs. G. W. Reinecke, Chicago, secretary of the women's section of the G. O. P. national commit-

be prepared to fight all the way for equal rights with men and will demand "fifty-fifty" representation on the national committee.Delegates already elected to the convention total 257. Of these 144 are women.States which have elected women
delegates are Minnesota one, Missouri 12 and Kentucky one.Women delegates from the following states are claimed as certain—
New York 3; South Dakota one; New Mexico one; California five and Illinois one."Altogether we expect to have at least 100 women delegates at the convention," said Mrs. Reinecke. "There were only nine at the last convention."Republican women leaders expect that their delegates will compose the most influential group in the convention. They point out that any action that may be taken in supporting a candidate is bound to have a moral effect on the men and may mean that the women will lead the final rally to the successful candidate.That women delegates may be selected to place the names of some candidates in nomination was predicted by Mrs. Reinecke.Women are expected to figure prominently in writing the party platform, according to Mrs. G. A. Soden, one of the women members of the committee drawing up the platform.Particular attention will be given to the educational plank. Efforts to

AURORA BOREALIS LIGHTS SKIES AND STOPS WIRE SERVICE

TELEGRAPHIC SERVICE INTERRUPTED BY ATMOSPHERIC CONDITIONS—SKY IS ILLUMINATED

Old man Aurora Borealis, who has been up to his tricks for several days, showed himself in the northern sky last night and attracted considerable attention. The skies were brightly lighted with long fingers of dancing flame which protruded to the middle of the heavens. The flickering phenomena caused many a head to tilt back searching for the end of the rays. The beautiful illumination was a fitting climax to a wonderful spring day. Aurora Borealis is a beautiful thing to look at but it brings forth more kinds of cuss words than one can enumerate from telegraph operators who are bothered with "ground currents." Twice each year telegraphic service is interrupted by the atmospheric manifestations and efforts of scientists to solve the problem have been fruitless.

Telegraph wires running into the Post-Crescent office were "down" more than an hour yesterday because of the ground currents which seemed to short circuit the wires. Today the condition still exists and the telegraph instruments, over which the foreign news enters the office, are working fitfully.

Reports from many cities indicate that the condition is general. New York reported that wires are in bad shape all along the Atlantic seaboard and from the west come reports that telegraphic service is far from satisfactory.

The currents were particularly troublesome during the night and several of the morning papers were without telegraphic service for hours.

URGE PURCHASE OF BLOCK AS SITE FOR NEW SCHOOL HOUSE

BOARD OF EDUCATION WANTS PART OF BLOCK EAST OF PRESENT HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

The board of education at its meeting Saturday afternoon passed a resolution favoring the purchase of three-fifths of the block immediately east of the present high school grounds as a site of the proposed new building. There was only one dissenting ballot. The resolution will be presented to the common council and will probably be acted upon at the next meeting. It is understood that the property can be purchased for between $45,000 and $50,000.

Another site under consideration was that immediately south of the present grounds, but the other was preferred on account of being less expensive. The sentiment of the board appears to be in favor of erecting a separate building to house high school students instead of the erection of an addition to the present building.

RODGER'S MECHANIC TELLS HOW FAMOUS AVIATOR MET DEATH

C. L. WIGGIN SAW AVIATOR KNOWN HERE PLUNGE TO DEATH — HELPED MAKE WAR PLANES

C. L. Wiggin, who was here in the fall of 1911 with "Cal" Rodgers, the aviator who made exhibition flights here and was later killed in California, is back in the city renewing acquaintances. He is the guest of Fred Felix Wettengel while here, and is also spending a portion of his time at the home of his brother-in-law, F. B. Whiting of Neenah.

The career of Rodgers since leaving Appleton was most interesting. Mr. Wiggin related some of the events leading up to his death. In September of 1911 the daring aviator undertook the second cross country flight of history, starting on September 17, 1911. Mr. Wiggin followed him on a special train, carrying assistants who picked him up at night and cared for his plane. The machine used was an old Wright model with a thirty horse-power engine. He reached Pasadena, California November 5, flying only in the daytime. When a town called Camp-ton was reached, only eight miles from the ocean, he suffered a near fatal fall, which confined him to a hospital until December 10 of that year. He then completed his flight, ending up at Long Beach. His was the first cross country flight that was finally achieved, although he was the second to start. In 1912 he was presented with a medal by President Taft for his accomplishment. He covered 4,266 miles in all.

Exhibition flights were made at different points in California, and it was during one of these that he was killed on April 3, 1912, hardly six months after he left Appleton. He was using a Wright bi-plane at the time, and met his death in diving too close to the ground with the wind at his back. Wiggin started him off on the trip and was an eye witness of his fatal plunge. "Cal" was buried in Arlington National Cemetery, and his body was later removed to his home at Pitsburg, Pa.

"Rodgers was truly a great man," Mr. Wiggin said. "I cannot pay too high a tribute to him as a gentleman and an aviator. He possessed wonderful courage to overcome the elements with such a plane as he had, a 30 horse-power Wright bi-plane, especially in crossing the continent. It was a remarkable feat and will never be done again, of course. Through his death the country lost its pioneer cross country flyer, who no doubt would have been one of the famous flyers of the war, had he lived to participate in the battles in France."

Mr. Wiggin is one of the country's prominent figures in the designing, building and flying of planes, and has held a license for eight years in the Aero Club of America, which also makes him a member of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, giving him permission to fly in any country.

During the war and up to November 1 of last year, Mr. Wiggin was stationed for the greater part of his time at Detroit. He had charge of the Detroit Acceptance Park, where machines were given the final test by the government before being shipped to the front. Approximately 1600 De Havilland planes, the type equipped with Liberty engines, were completed and shipped from that point. He also assisted in modifying the famous Italian Caproni plane to meet the American production system. The Italian design has been improved and the machines made here have three Liberty engines with a total of twelve-hundred horse-power. He flew one of these to the Ellington flying field in Texas. These were originally built for bombardment of the German trenches and were capable of carrying a load of bombs weighing 3,500 pounds. The war ended before they could be used in the service, however.

While at Detroit, Mr. Wiggin also assisted in the construction of the Lepere plane. He helped design the first one and while he was connected with the factories accepted 25 others for flying. This is practically the latest development in aeroplane construction. It was originally designed as a two-seated machine, which would outstrip those used by the Germans. One of these was used by Major Schroeder in his recent flight in which he reached an altitude of 27,220 feet, breaking the world's record almost at the cost of his life. Mr. Wiggin explained that this was possible through a new device called a super-charger designed by a Frenchman. It is an enclosed mechanism, containing a revolving impeller capable of 3,000 revolutions per minute. When the air is sparse at high altitude the impeller is started, and a pressure equal to that at sea level is created. Without this normal supply of air, the carburetor would cease to function.

Water mains burst Sunday at the corner of College avenue and Walnut street and on Second street which have since been repaired. Several smaller breaks have also been reported and are receiving attention.

INHERITANCE OF EARTH GIVEN NEW VERSION BY TOLF

SPEAKER AT ADVENTIST CHURCH AVERS 'RIGHTEOUS WILL COME BACK TO LIVE ON THE EARTH'

Sitting around on a cloud and playing a harp forever, is not the Rev. Mr. Tolf's idea of Heaven, according to his sermon Sunday night at the Seventh Day Adventist church, corner of Richmond and Gilmore streets. "Nowhere in the Bible does it say the righteous will live in Heaven forever. Well, where are we going to live then? In Matt. 5:5 and Psal. 37:9, 11, 22, 29 and 34 we find it stated many times that the righteous shall inherit the earth. 'An inheritance comes to us through the will of some person. I hope to inherit some of this earth by the will of my elder Brother, Jesus Christ, who has sealed the testament with his blood. Satan is the Prince of the world today, having wrested the dominion from Adam. Christ died on Calvary that he might redeem this possession for us," said Mr. Tolf.

"In John 14:1-3 Christ tells the disciples that he is going to prepare a place for them and promises to return again and receive them. In 1 Thess. 4:16 Paul says the Lord will descend from Heaven, and the righteous dead will be raised and the righteous living will be caught up to meet him in the air. In Rev. 20:4 and 6 John saw the saints reigning with Christ in Heaven for 1,000 years. During these 1,000 years the earth lies desolate, with Satan bound upon it.

97 WIS. ST. PATENTS BRANCH OFFICE WILWAUKEE WISCONSIN YOUNG AND YOUNG

But at the end of this period, we will return to inherit the earth forever. In Rev. 21:2 John saw the New Jerusalem descend from Heaven. Satan, loosed for a little season, with the wicked, who are raised, makes a last attempt to destroy the children of God. Fire descends from Heaven and destroys the wicked, cleansing the earth and forever freeing the universe from sin. "In this restored Eden the saints dwell forever, for the earth has been made new, as it was in the beginning, when God pronounced it 'very good.' " "How Can We Get a Ticket for Heaven?" will be the subject of next Sunday night's sermon, which will finish this topic.

BETTER AMERICA IS LA FOLLETTE'S AIM, THOMPSON ASSERTS

JAMES THOMPSON MAKES STIR-RING APPEAL FOR ELEC-TION AS A LAFOLLETTE
DELEGATE

President Wilson, profiteers, sedition laws, money trust, deportation of reds, bought courts and corrupt press were flayed in a vivid two hour talk to 250 men and women at Eagle Hall Monday evening by James L. Thompson of La Crosse, candidate for election as a LaFollette delegate to the republican national convention in Chicago next June. Although Mr. Thompson was here to boom LaFollette's interest, the name of the senator was used only nine times in the course of the address and was not referred to in the first hour.

LaFollette was called the greatest statesman in America and Thompson predicted that history will place this name alongside that of Lincoln as one of the greatest Americans that has ever lived. He asserted that if LaFollette had taken the fourteen points, on which the armistice was based, to Paris he would have stood by them and that a real peace would have been the result of the Versailles conference.

Ballard Gives Talk
Following Thompson's address, C. B. Ballard, Grand Chute, reviewed the history of the John Deml case, recently thrown out of court by Judge A. H. Reid. He said the court's decision came as a surprise to him and that he was not conscious of wrong doing when he acted as Deml's cham-

their huge profits; fourth, to gain control of the United States government, from the office of president to the lowest, in the land.
"Men who have the courage to oppose this hideous campaign are called Bolsheviks, anarchists and all the names that can be borrowed from the Russian vocabulary. A man is called a bolshevist and an anarchist because he tries to obtain justice for the common citizen, but I want to say that the biggest Bolsheviks of them all are the men who are responsible for this scheme to force the working man into submission."

Wants Trial for Reds
Deportation of reds and anarchists without trial by jury was condemned as un-American and opposed to the principles of the American constitution. He read excerpts from hearings given alleged anarchists by department of justice officials to prove his statements that the men arrested in the "red" round-ups were sent out of the country without giving them a chance to prove their innocence of the charge of trying to overthrow the government. LaFollette delegates are pledged to obtain trial by jury for all classes of persons, Mr. Thompson said.

"Deportation of alleged anarchists will not stop the anarchist movement. You can't deport ideas. Good ideas will live and grow and the bad ideas will die by the way side. Give all the ideas a chance to be aired. America is not a weakling which cannot stand new ideas. Let them all talk and let the American people decide whether or not the ideas are dangerous." Mr. Thompson said in a plea for greater liberty of speech.

Sees Universal Training
Universal military training was condemned as a scheme of the money trust to force the common man into submission and make him more susceptible to the dictates of the man

BLAINE IS PLAYED BY PHILIPP IN HIS WATERTOWN SPEECH

GOVERNOR CHARGES ATTORNEY
GENERAL WITH BOLTING
REPUBLICAN PARTY
AT CONVENTION

Watertown, Wis. — Gov. E. L. Philipp, opening his delegate campaign here Monday night, questioned the party standing of Attorney General John J. Blaine, a Wilson boomer not so long ago, and took a fling at bolters.

Blaine is one of the pledged candidates for delegate at large. Gov. Philipp is an unpledged candidate for the same position.
"Our attorney general, Mr. Blaine, in a thoughtless manner, takes our unstructured delegation to task for not having a platform," said Gov. Philipp. "He says we don't stand for anything. I might remind the gentleman that we are making a campaign for election to a republican family function."

"Mr. Blaine bolted the republican nomination, and, of course, incidentally, the party, and we have not yet heard when the gentleman returned to the republican fold. He might as well understand that if he is there now, he is on probation."

"This matter of electing delegates to a political convention is important to the people," continued Gov. Philipp.
"Myself and my colleagues are un-instructed and will accept no instruction. If we are elected we shall go to the convention to exercise our best judgment in the interest of the people and it is purely a question whether the people of the state are willing to trust us. If they want an instructed delegation, for whom do they want to instruct their delegation?"

"The opposing delegation, I will assume, is a LaFollette delegation. The senator has been a candidate at three conventions. Does he want the delegation for himself? If he does not, how much freedom is he going to allow his delegates? Are they not obliged to go wherever he tells them?"
"The fact is, Wisconsin has no influence on the nomination under those conditions. If the state has a real presidential possibility, I think we are all loyal enough to support him, provided he will accept a republican platform, and stand for republican principles. All those who bolt the platform in advance, have no right in a republican convention. They should go where their platform fits."

Gov. Philipp ridiculed the idea published in some newspapers, that he had entered into a political combination with Senator Roy P. Wilcox, his opponent in the last gubernatorial campaign.

pion in the litigation. Captain Fred Heinemann presided. The audience consisted largely of workmen with a sprinkling of farmers. It was said that poor roads kept many of the farmers at home.

Mr. Thompson declared that the efforts of the LaFollette delegates, if elected, will be to boom LaFollette's candidacy for the white house and he asserted that if the president could be elected by popular vote the Wisconsin senator would be the nation's next chief executive.

Conditions Have Changed
America today is not the America of four or five years ago. Mr. Thompson said. The people of today are facing new conditions but they are facing them with a new spirit. The spirit of uncertainty is in the air and people are undecided but they are thinking.

"The men and women of America are thinking about the problems of the day and when these men and women think then the country is safe for they will arrive at a solution of their problems," Mr. Thompson said.

The speaker asserted that when America entered the war the people were told that they were fighting for a great democracy and that when the conflict ended they would enjoy greater privileges and that America would in power. The value of universal training as a preventive of future wars was ridiculed.

"It is an absurd idea to teach a man to fight and then expect him not to fight. That idea is about as logical as teaching a boy to become an expert poker player and then expect that he will never play the game."

Mexican Propaganda
"Mexico's greatest crime is to be the owner of oil wells which American capitalists want for themselves," Mr. Thompson said in condemning the efforts of Wall street and a "bought" press to force intervention in the southern country. Mexico is safe for all persons except those who wish to exploit its resources without just compensation to that country. Mr. Thompson averred and he decried the efforts to send American troops across the border to protect American money interests.

"We take the position that there shall be no more war, except to repel actual invasion of our soil, until it is first submitted to an advisory vote of the people. You may have your fake leagues of nations and your slick diplomats but the only way to stop war is let the people who pay the bills and make the sacrifices do the deciding. If we want to put an end to war, let us leave it to the

be a heaven upon earth, but now with the war over the soldiers and workers are still searching for that Utopian condition that was promised. Instead of a greater democracy, America has developed into an autocracy and there is less democracy than before the war, the speaker said.

Would Jail Profiteers
Profiteers who gouged the American people and made fortunes under the guise of patriotism were scored by the speaker who asserted that even his Satanic majesty may refuse to insult the inhabitants of his region by admitting the price gougers to their midst. He asserted that while hundreds of persons were arrested and jailed for making "innocent" remarks about the war, only three profiteers were convicted and they were let off with comparatively light punishment. The LaFollette delegation plans to drive the money men from its powerful position if elected. Mr. Thompson asserted. The only just punishment for profiteers is jail sentences, the speaker said.

Money Trust Program
In an effort to retain control of the government, the "unscrupulous money trust" has launched a campaign which has four objects, Mr. Thompson said. These four objects are, first to crush organized labor and force the workmen back to the position he held fifty years ago; second, to make the farmers, workmen and soldiers pay for the war; third, to make the high cost of living permanent in order to keep up fathers and the mothers of the boys who must bear the brunt of the work."

League Born Dead
The trouble with the league of nations, Mr. Thompson said, is that "it was born dead." He declared the league is nothing more or less than an alliance of the victors to keep what they have and it is the biggest fraud perpetrated in 700 years. The armistice was based on President Wilson's fourteen points but when the peace conference got underway the points were discarded and as a result Wilson fell from the position of the world's greatest man to one of the world's worst failures.

Penus for Soldiers
Federal recognition of the work performed by America's soldiers should be given in the form of a substantial bonus to be paid, not by the common people, but from the incomes of men who made fortunes during the war. He said that recognition is due the veterans and predicted that if they will line up behind Senator LaFollette he will do all in his power to obtain it for them.

Crimes of the profiteers and the war grafters were subjected to the light of public opinion by the speaker. He cited instances of graft in dealings with the government and asserted that the LaFollette delegates are pledged to demand an accounting of them and to bring them to justice.

Judge Anderson Flayed
Judge Anderson of the Indiana district court was scored for granting an injunction aimed at the striking coal miners and suggested as a remedy for this condition the election of federal judges for limited terms, instead of appointment for life as is the case now. He said that this plank is included in the LaFollette platform. Abolition of the electoral college and popular nomination and election of the president are also included in the LaFollette platform, Mr. Thompson said.

Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer was characterized as a man who is fighting the people instead of fighting for them. He was charged with being in league with the big interests and urged the voters to eliminate them.

Mr. Thompson concluded his two hour address with an appeal for support of the LaFollette delegation, asserting that the men, if elected, would work for LaFollette's nomination and for inclusion of his principles in the republican platform.

VICK'S VAPORUB

offers a new way to treat croup and cold troubles

THE OLD WAY

Treatment by internal dosing, which does not reach direct to the affected parts and which frequently does derange the digestion.

DIRECTIONS FOR THE USE OF VICKS

Vapors Important—For diseases of the respiratory organs, such as colds, a large part of the value of Vicks lies in its vaporizing qualities. Therefore, whenever Vicks is applied over the throat and chest, care should be taken to leave the clothing loose around the neck and the bed clothes arranged in the form of a funnel, so that the vapors arising may be freely inhaled.

Hot Wet Cloths—In cases of very severe colds, sore throat, coughs, incipient pneumonia, etc., hot, wet towels should be applied over the throat and chest to open the pores of the skin before applying Vicks.

Fresh Air—Plenty of fresh air in the bed room is the best way to prevent colds and lung troubles. Fresh air does not cause colds; it strengthens the lungs, enabling the system to throw off colds.

Asthma—Vicks is not a "cure" for asthma—so far as we know, there is no cure. In many cases, however, Vicks does give relief. Rub it well over the spinal column, from the neck to the hips to relieve the nervous tension. Then apply freely over throat and chest at bed time and cover with hot flannels. Renew frequently and always have the covers loose, so that the vapors may be freely inhaled. Also melt Vicks in a spoon and inhale the vapors and apply a little up the nostrils.

Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Colds in the Chest—If a severe case, first apply hot, wet towels over the throat and chest. Then rub Vicks in well until the skin is red, spread on thickly and cover with two thicknesses of hot, flannel cloths.

Catarh, Colds in the Head—Melt a little Vicks in a spoon and inhale the vapors. Also apply well up the nostrils. There are so many varieties of catarh that a competent physician should always be consulted. For many forms, however, Vicks is excellent. Dissolve a half teaspoonful of salt in a pint of warm water and snuff up the nostrils night and morning. Then insert Vicks freely up the nostrils as far as possible, snuffing well back into the air passages.

Children's Colds—Vicks is particularly valuable in treating children's colds, since it is an external treatment, and therefore, does not disturb the delicate digestions of children. The best plan is to keep Vicks constantly on hand and apply freely and often at the first sign of "sniffles."

Growing children require plenty of fresh air and exercise and should be

COLDS are simply inflammation or congestion of the mucous membrane or lining of the respiratory organs—air passages and lungs. They should be treated just as surface inflammations, such as Burns or Bruises are treated—that is, the medication should be applied directly to the inflamed parts. Internal medication going to the stomach does not reach directly the affected parts. But medication cannot be applied directly to the air passages and lungs except in the form of vapors that can be inhaled; and, until the discovery of Vick's VapoRub, there was no efficient, economical method of supplying these vapors.

Vicks Acts Both Externally and Internally

VICK'S VAPORUB is the discovery of a North Carolina druggist, L. Richardson, who found a way to combine the standard, time-tested remedies—Menthol, Camphor, Turpentine, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Juniper, etc.—in salve form, so that when Vicks is applied to the body, these ingredients are vaporized by the body heat.

INTERNALLY, these vapors, inhaled with each breath all night long, carry the medication direct to the air passages and lungs

EXTERNALLY, Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, attracting the blood to the affected parts and aiding the vapors inhaled to relieve the inflammation or congestion.

How the Use of Vicks Has Grown

Starting with the customers of Mr. Richardson's retail drug store, the use of Vicks has increased county by county, state by state, until now more than 17 million jars are used annually—practically one jar for every family in the United States—and this in spite of the fact that Vicks is still a new treatment to many people in the North and West. Once used, Vicks is a friend for life—it is so easily applied—so quick in its results.

THE NEW WAY

Treatment by Vick's VapoRub, which is applied externally—relieving by inhalation as a vapor and by absorption and stimulation through the skin.

kept in the open as much as possible; even in the winter.

Coughs—Apply Vicks as directed for Colds in the Chest and Head, and if the cough is very annoying, swallow; every few hours, a small piece the size of a pea.

Croup—Spasmodic—Rub Vicks freely over chest and throat until the difficult breathing is relieved. One application is usually enough. To prevent croup during the night, give a good application over the throat and chest at bed time and cover with hot, flannel cloths.

Influenza—In spite of the epidemic last winter, very little is known of this disease—even the germ causing it is not yet definitely located and no specific for influenza so far as known has been discovered. In all cases a physician should be called promptly.

Vicks is to be used as an external application in connection with the physician's treatment. Apply as directed for Pneumonia.

To Avoid Influenza—Influenza is a spit-borne disease, and when inhaled the germs attack the mucous membrane, or lining of the air passages. Even this is not absolutely certain, but it is agreed by most authorities that keeping the system in good condition and the air passages stimulated and free from colds is the best way to avoid the disease.

Melting a little Vicks in a spoon night and morning and inhaling the vapors, and applying well up the nostrils several times a day, particularly when in crowds, is recommended.

Pneumonia—(1) Send for your physician at the first sign of pneumonia. (2) Immediately begin the use of Vicks as an external application. For pneumonia, Vicks is applied somewhat as directed for Deep Chest Colds—for full directions see the Directions Folder.

Tonsillitis—Apply as directed for Sore Throat.

Whooping Cough—This is a self-limited disease, running a course which varies from a few weeks to several months. There is no known specific—Vicks is of value in easing the cough paroxysms, and thus lessening their weakening effect on the system. Rub Vicks well over the spinal column, from the neck to the hips, to relieve the nervous tension. Then apply over throat and chest, covering with hot flannels.

Vicks is Not Meant to Replace the Physician—At the first symptoms of a serious illness, such as pneumonia, a physician should always be called. Many other troubles, such as chronic catarrh or continued headache, call for the diagnosis of a good doctor.

GERMANY'S PERIL

The royalist revolution in Germany has been followed by a swinging of the pendulum to the other extreme. It took less than a week to crush this strike at popular government, but an uprising of any character in Germany is attended with menacing possibilities. A country so burdened from the economic ravages of war, and containing intensely hostile groups of political theorists is fertile soil for civil uprisings. The use of force in one direction is almost certain to kindle force in some other quarter bent upon destroying the existing government.

This is what has happened in the present crisis. The reds have taken advantage of the opportunity to assail the foundation and structure of the government, and they are sufficiently numerous and in possession of enough troops to make them a formidable factor. They are much more liable to carry public opinion with them than the junkers. Bolshevik doctrines have obtained a strong footing in many parts of Germany, and under a temporary manifestation of power might conceivably gain ascendancy.

The internal situation in Germany may be regarded as more serious than at any time since the armistice. There is grave peril of a disastrous civil war, and only prompt and vigorous measures by the sane and substantial element of the country in support of the constitution and the government will avert it.

A SURFACE OPINION

The Chicago Tribune says that the south is for prohibition, against woman suffrage, and solidly Democratic, all "because of the negro." While it is true that for half a century the perplexing and ever-present negro problem has inevitably influenced southern politics, the interesting fact which the Tribune overlooks is that the south has always been predominantly Democratic, not only during the last half century, but during the previous half century, and even before the slavery question itself became a political issue—ever since the year 1800, in fact, when Thomas Jefferson led his "Republican" (afterward called Democratic) party to victory. At the very beginning, however, there was more or less of a sectional alignment, Jefferson leading the southern and middle states against New England—an accident due chiefly to the fact that President John Adams was a New Englander and was supported by the Federalist party which was especially strong in his section.

If John Adams had been a southern or middle states president, it is quite probable that New England would have joined in the revolt against his policies. In any case the revolt was inevitable. Jefferson's new party came into being largely as a protest against the alien and sedition acts and the policy under these acts of President Adams who repeatedly cast free-tongued citizens into prison in a misguided effort to suppress criticism. The growing strength of the very natural revolt against these and other un-American tendencies is shown by the fact that in his election to his second term Jefferson carried every state in the union except Connecticut and Delaware.

Later on the southern states continued predominantly Democratic not merely because of the Democratic party's defense of the slavery institution (a result of the accident of southern leadership) but because, being thinly populated and weaker in congressional representation than the north, they found it to their interests to support the Democratic doctrine of state rights or home rule, as opposed to the Republican principle of centralization of federal power. The south also inclined toward the Democratic policy of freer trade because it was an agricultural and non-manufacturing region. Even if there had been no negro problem, it is practically certain that for other reasons the south would have remained predominantly Democratic, although no one can doubt that the negro problem has made the south more "solid" than it otherwise might have been. This intemperate problem has entered as one factor into the south's attitude toward prohibition and woman suffrage, but quite apart from that factor there are others which in all probability would have produced the same results. To reason from present indications without reference to past conditions as the Chicago Tribune has done in this connection, is to fail to look beneath the surface.

MR. NEWBERRY'S POINT OF VIEW

Senator Newberry is quoted as saying: "I am proud of the fact that the record in this case contains nothing of which I need be ashamed." This comment followed his conviction on the charge of criminal conspiracy to violate the election laws which limit the expenditure of money in a campaign, and after he had been sentenced to two years in the penitentiary and the payment of a $10,000 fine. We have many laws in this country designed to protect the personal, property, social and political rights of the people. We may personally dislike some of these laws and question their necessity or righteousness, but it is our duty to obey them so long as they are laws. If the court is right in its interpretation of the statute, Mr. Newberry has transgressed a law enacted to preserve the purity of elections and to protect them from control by the use of money.

Mr. Newberry, or his campaign committee, may not be guilty of fraud, bribery or corruption, as the senator points out. That, however, is not the point in this case. They were not charged with or tried for this offense. The accusation was that money grossly in excess of the amount limited by law was expended to elect him senator. Under the court's construction of the law he was not permitted to spend, or have knowledge of the expenditure of, more than $3,750. Mr. Newberry's campaign chairman testified on the witness stand that he had warned the senator that the campaign would cost at least $50,000, whereas by the admission of the committee in the trial it actually cost $176,000. The government's attorneys contend they proved an expenditure of $225,000, while testimony was given to the effect that one defendant in a conversation stated $800,000 was spent. The true amount lies somewhere between $176,000 and $800,000.

If the verdict and sentence of the trial court are affirmed on appeal Mr. Newberry is destined to serve two years in prison and pay a fine of $10,000. Can it be possible that he considers this eventuality, in case it materializes, as nothing to be ashamed of? Can it be possible that even if the sentence is never executed, his moral sense touching the probability of elections excuses the use of anywhere from $176,000 to $800,000 to send him to the United States senate? We do not know anything about Mr. Newberry's wealth, and that sum of money may seem to him a legitimate or even small amount to spend to win an election, but so far as the people are concerned we are satisfied that they look upon it as an indefensible purchase of public office.

Perhaps the point of view Mr. Newberry has expressed offers an explanation why he consented to the lavish use of money in his campaign, and his apparent willingness to take a chance on being called to account for the violation of a criminal statute. Mr. Newberry has a good record of service in the war department and in the conflict with Germany, and his private life has been honorable, but his declaration that he has nothing to be ashamed of in the record of the case just tried at Grand Rapids discloses a state of mind that is difficult to comprehend and that does not well become a man in his unenviable position. If he is right why have any restrictions on the amount of money that may be used in elections?

BRAZIL PLANS BIG CENTENNIAL

Washington.—Celebration of Brazil's one hundredth birthday will be held on a big scale in Rio de Janeiro in September, 1922, according to the Pan-American Union here today.

The celebration will take on the appearance of a world's fair, according to Franklin Adams, counselor of the Union. Adams has just returned from a tour of Argentina and Brazil. According to Adams, Brazil will celebrate its centennial on an elaborate scale.

To stimulate interest throughout Brazil the government has offered prizes for the best opera depicting the history of Brazil, and for the best drama, also relating historical events.

All countries will be invited to send exhibits and the United States is expected to send a big exhibition either in costume or statue.

Here pageants will be held and Rio de Janeiro will probably take on the appearance of a carnival of gaiety for several weeks. Visitors are expected from all parts of the world for the event.

Though the Olympic games are not scheduled to be held in 1922, efforts are to be made to induce those in charge of the games to make an exception and allow the games to be staged. Failing this, an invitation will be sent out to all countries to send their athletes to compete in an international athletic meet.

Chrys Wants to Go In Search of Daddy With Spiritual Aid

"I vow that I will set out in search of Daddy under spirit guidance," Chrys said defiantly. "And I will start as soon as I get a little more testimony about him."

"My dear! My dear!" I exclaimed. "I have gone through some terrible experiences which I haven't courted and haven't wanted, but I am a very mild little adventurer compared to you—if you take a ghost for a guide! I tried, at least, to take along a little common sense. Surely, Chrys, you'll never cut loose from your home and follow instructions you obtain from that spelling board? How about Jordan Spence?"

"I'll do just that," she replied. "Jordan Spence loves me as I love him. He will humor me."

"I don't feel so sure about that," I said. "For the love of love, Chrys, let us accept all this supernatural nonsense as literature. But let us not act in accordance with it."

"If the thing is true at all, it must be a guide to conduct," was the rejoinder. "I was reminded for the hundredth time that Bob's only sister is a born fanatic when she sets out to have her own way. They say that she inherits her spirit from an ancestor whom Queen Mary burned at the stake."

"Listen to reason, Chrys. We'll hear from Daddy soon. He will cable us again, you'll see, when they make the next harbor. I, for one, have had all the adventure I want for a cycle of blue moons. I'm going to be passive and not interfere with the fates. Maybe that is a good theory—it's popular, but none of the Lorimers have ever experimented with it. Well, I'm going to. Pretty soon Bob and I are going to open up our own little house again. And I am going to drift with the tide of life. I guess I'll be as happy as I have been while leading a strenuous life."

"Welcome destiny in however sinister a disguise," quoted Chrys, with a shrug. "I shivered. I couldn't help it. Our long talk had excited me. I knew that Chrys can be horribly perverse when her pet plans are not received with enthusiasm. Sometimes her own respect for her communications with the unseen effect her speech and her manner and she really looks like a magnificent sibyl or prophetess of ancient days."

"Perhaps the conversation with the ghost had made me creepy. I couldn't imagine any kind of a sinister destiny attached to my pretty little home, nevertheless, I shuddered and had to force a little vivacity into my voice when I answered:

"I'll take my luck a day at a time, my dear." "The luck you need is some kind of a steady job for that husband of yours." Plainly Chrys wanted to get away from our talk about the world of mysteries. "Bob has been brushing up against some dangerous romances since he took off his uniform."

"Bob was a dandy business man before he was shell-shocked," I insisted. "He isn't a lazy man—he never was. He can't help being a millionaire's son, and if he wants to study, study, day and night."

"He studies only when he hasn't got to rescue some fair damsel in distress," was Chrys's next thrust.

What reason had she to remind me of that? "Bob is a 100 per cent husband, Chrys, and I am going to be a 100 per cent wife. He will play the knight errant for my fair maiden, ever again!" I said. But although I tried to believe my own words I became suddenly aware of a new flare of jealousy within my heart.

Katherine Miller was at home, I had heard. Was that tawny-haired tiger woman to be, once more, a disguise for a sinister destiny?

TAMPECO COULD SUPPLY OIL FOR WHOLE WORLD

Tampico.—Oil men believe today that 1920 may witness the greatest activity in the Mexican petroleum industry. They agree also that the oil development of Mexico is still in its infancy.

Before peering into the future, however, it is well to get a picture of the present. For only by comprehending the immensity of the Mexican oil "game" today can a person give credence to the staggering possibilities of the future.

It must be explained, before citing production figures, that in Mexico a distinction always is drawn between "actual" and "potential" production. The potential production of wells in the Tampico field is so great that only a comparatively small part of the oil is pumped from the wells. There are two principal reasons for this. First, transportation and terminal facilities are insufficient to handle the full output; second, it is deemed unwise to pump the wells to their full capacity, for that hastens the encroachment of salt water, a factor which already has brought grief to many of Tampico's biggest producers.

On the first of this year the daily potential production of the Tampico territory was estimated at 1,770,000 barrels. This figure included the output of the two principal fields of the northern district, Panuco and Topila, and of the "south country," where production is heaviest, the wells in that field are averaging a daily potential production of 28,000 barrels. Of the total estimate, however, not more than 35 per cent of the oil is actually being produced.

A better idea of actual production may be gained from export figures. In January sixteen oil companies exported 8,061,289 barrels of petroleum from the Tampico district, an increase over previous months. The Hauateca Petroleum Company, founded by E. L. Doherty of Los Angeles, recorded the largest exports, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey was second and El Aguila, representing British capital, was third.

During 1919 the production of petroleum in Mexico totaled 92,492,955 barrels, according to George Harland, petroleum statistician, whose figures are generally accepted as "official" by the oil companies.

Exports of crude oil and refinery products from the three ports of Tampico, Tuxpam and Port Lobos totaled $6,530,000 barrels in the same year. But here is the significant fact: this was an increase of 42 per cent over 1918. Of the total exports, the United States took nearly 57,999,999 barrels. South America, with six and one-half million barrels, and Great Britain, with something over two billion barrels, were next in line.

Not only do these figures give concrete evidence of the size of the Mexican oil industry, but they indicate that the United States not only is the leading producer of Mexican oil, but also is the principal purchaser. Unlike other oil producing countries, the internal consumption of crude oil and refined products in Mexico is very low; consequently, the bulk of production is transported to tidewater and shipped to foreign ports.

The quantity of Mexican oil production, however, must be viewed in light of the fact that she probably has drilled fewer wells, and produced less territory, than any other great oil producing region. Oil men in Tampico declare today that potentially Mexico is able to supply the petroleum demands of the whole world.

The basis of that property, and the movement toward its realization, contain the future of Mexico's oil industry. And it is future oil supply that the world is struggling for today.

THE LATEST STYLE

"What is it," said a friend to me. "That strangest sound? What can it be?"
 We listened, and upon my word,
 A most peculiar noise we heard.

Flap, flip, flop!
 The wings of wild geese northward flying?
 The sound of Monday's wash a-drying?
 No, 'tis none of these, old top!
 Flap, flip, flop!

Sluff, slop, slap!
 A broken awning in the breeze?
 An awning while we chill and freeze?
 No, you're far from right, old chap!
 Sluff, slop, slap!

Jing, jang, jing!
 A tire chain has surely parted.
 Else a boiler factory's started.
 Hear that sharp metallic ring!
 Jing, jang, jing!

Just then a high school girl passed by,
 Her arctic overshoes so high
 Remained unluckily
 As they clumped and flapped we chuckled
 For we understood the reason why.

It is said that $15 silk shirts will sell for $25 this summer and inasmuch as one was born every minute 20 or 25 years ago we don't doubt but that they will sell.

LOOKS LIKE WE ARE IN FOR A PLEASANT SUMMER

Never were hostery fashions more tempting—or more novel and daring than this spring. Here is some of the typical hostery that is to be worn as soon as high shoes are retired for the season. Gaze! And do a bit of your gasping now—so it won't be a complete shock when you meet this hostery in action!

At the left is the justly famous fishnet hostery—the thin whistling of open-work modes. When discarded as hose these may be used in seining minnows for that fishing trip. Next in line are two specimens of the lace hose family. The patterns are simple but good, and are finished just below the knee to give the effect of hosiery.

The hosettes themselves are of heavy black silk, and have cute little turn-over bands. In length they reach just below the knees and are held in place by bands of black elastic worn under the fold. Plain silk hose are worn—occasionally—but even these should show a white clocking if they would be truly smart.—Milwaukee Journal.

T. B. M. should take these morning exercises to get care and trouble out of his system.

1. Rise at 7:00 a. m.

2. Stand in the middle of the room. Raise arms slowly overhead, take deep breath and say "Damn the Government!" lowering arms in attitude of despair. Ten times.

3. Extend body, face downward on the floor. Cover eyes with hands. Kick heels, think of railroads and weep. Till dry.

4. Kneel. Wring hands. Meditate upon the labor situation and groan. 150 times.

5. Assume sitting position. Hands on hips. Sway gently to and fro and concentrate upon Mr. Purser until a genuine frowning in the mouth sets in. Till exhausted.

6. Collapse on floor. Grovel vigorously. Think of the income tax and gnash teeth as in anger.

7. Note: Observe this simple regime every morning before breakfast and you will reach the office with most of the cares and troubles of the day already out of your system.

THE MORON WOMAN—3

A young man with great prospects met a social butterfly, a doll-faced girl, frivolous, attractive in a sensual way, but nevertheless a moron—her mind was that of a child of ten. He admired her, became infatuated, and made her his wife.

The young man made rapid strides in his career. He won a fine reputation in his particular calling, stepped higher and higher up in the world—but all the time there was a millstone round his neck. The butterfly wife never developed mentally. Her reading, pastimes, occupations were all frivolous, shallow.

Children came. The first boy worried along until the second term in high school, with considerable outside tutoring, which normal lads do not require. Then one day he "clipped" with a girl of the street—his equal.

The next boy did a trifle better in school, but cigarettes got him by the time he was seventeen, and not long afterward he learned to drink. Of course, venereal disease soon completed the trilogy, and the young man went to the devil.

The third child was a girl who is a little less competent mentally than her mother. She has figured in some sorry escapades with the "society people" she cultivates.

Young man, keep clear of the moron woman.

It is easy to detect her. She may be physically attractive, healthy looking, in a way pretty with her doll-face and her air of girlish innocence. But it is from the eyebrows up that she is defective. Her mind is more childish than her physical appearance. She is incapable of serious thinking. She can't discuss political or world events. She hasn't the gray matter. In school she is a failure; she seldom goes all the way through. Her reading, if she does any, is trashy. Her music, if she can play or sing at all, is generally as shallow as her conversation.

Good looks should by all means be desired by a man in the mother of his children. Good looks are best obtained through hygiene and good health. But the woman who is to mother a man's children ought to have something besides good looks.

Young man, beware of the moron woman.

If you're thinking of tying up pick a girl who can make her own clothes, bake good bread, teach school or do something else with her brains.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Bed-Spring Backache

Can you tell me whether sleeping on one's back is sufficient to cause a backache low down a few hours after rising? I find that I do not have this morning backache if I sleep on my side, but I do if I turn on my back. (G. M. E.)

ANSWER—If the bed-springs or mattress sag in the middle, a strain is placed upon the sacro-lumbar joints (joints between the base of the spine and the hip bones), and this is a not uncommon cause of backache. The springs and mattress should be flexible and comfortable, but there should be no sagging in the middle. Health efficiency makes any reasonable investment in good springs and good mattresses real economy.

Dyeing the Hair

Please tell me what harm it does a person to color the hair, if it makes a person look twenty years younger. (H. E. A.)

ANSWER—If the dye itself is not poisonous, no harm is done. I'd dye my hair Nixgreen if I thought it would make me any happier.

Onion
 I've heard if one cuts an onion in halves, and lets one raw half stand till next day before eating it, it is not healthful. (A. E. R.)

ANSWER—Well, send your unused halves over to our house next day and we'll dispose of 'em for you. The cut onion is as wholesome, so kept, as any other vegetable—but the aroma of onions stimulates the imagination of many, hence the various onion superstitions.

LEAVES HIDES WORTH $1,000 IN LOCAL STORE

"Can I leave this sack here for a few minutes?" said a woodman upon entering W. C. Fish's grocery store early Monday morning. "Certainly," said the proprietor, "just leave it there anywhere."

The grocer continued his work without even looking at the sack and thought no more about it until half an hour later when the owner returned.

The woodman said that he wanted to catch the next interurban car for Green Bay and finding the express office locked asked if he might leave the sack at the store until his return two days later.

"What's in it?" inquired the grocer. "Skins," replied the owner. "What are they valued at?" "One thousand dollars."

"If that's the case, I don't want them left here," said Mr. Fish, who volunteered to have an express messenger called for them as soon as the office was open. This was agreeable to the owner, who claimed that he has just come from Ironwood, Mich., where he had spent the winter.

The hides were addressed to a St. Louis firm and were sent on their way shortly after the stranger took his departure. Mr. Fish took a receipt for them which he is holding for the owner.

The girls' club at New London, and the men's club at Neenah, but they returned here last night in order to start from here today. The clubs are going in opposite directions. The girls' club to appear tonight at Del'ere, the men's at Oshkosh.

The men's club played to a completely filled church last night at Neenah. The audience was enthusiastic in its applause. The quartet composed of Kevill Larsen, Edward Schultz, Harry Willson, and Clement Hackworthy was especially favored. The clever farce by Roy Herlet and Fen Puch also delighted the audience. Winfield Alexander the blind student of Lawrence college, greatly pleased with his solos and encores were demanded.

Miss M. Geenen will leave this evening for Chicago where she will spend several days in the interest of the ready-to-wear and millinery departments of the Geenen store.

PREPARATORY ORCHESTRA PLEASES IN FIRST CONCERT

Youthful Students of Lawrence Conservatory Present Excellent Program at Memorial Chapel

Lawrence Preparatory orchestra played to a full house last evening at the chapel and rendered a program that was commendable considering that it was the work of aspirants to entrance into the conservatory. The lower floor of the auditorium was filled to capacity, and a large number of listeners also occupied the balcony.

The opening number by the orchestra ensemble was a march from the opera "Norma" by Bellini, and was heartily applauded. Miss Mary Breitrick appeared next, rendering two vocal solos, "Love Me or Not" (Secchi) and "In an Old Fashioned Town" (Squire). "Two Little Waltzes" by Ascher was the next number played by the orchestra. In her piano solo "Sonata C Major" (Mozart), which followed, Miss Miriam Peabody was given a surprising ovation. Two readings, "Sunday" and "Grandma's Games" were cleverly rendered by Miss Josephine Buchanan, and the orchestra then appeared again, playing an air from "Rigoletto" by Verdi. Miss Breitrick then made her second appearance, singing two solos, "The Mither Heart" (Stickles) and "Oh! for a Day in Spring" by Andrews. Her work was highly appreciated. "The Dancing Doll" was Miss Miriam Peabody's second number. The program concluded with two numbers by the orchestra, "Gavotte" and "March" by Ascher.

The orchestra, which was composed largely of string instruments, was directed by Prof. Percy Fullinwider, and accompanied by Eleanor Proctor Furlinger at the piano.

COLBY CONFIRMED AS SECRETARY OF STATE

WILSON APPOINTMENT GIVEN POSITION WITHOUT OPPOSITION — FACES A BIG TASK

Washington — Bainbridge Colby took the oath of office today as secretary of state after official notification of his confirmation by the senate had been received.

The ceremony took place in the office of the secretary of state, in the presence of Under Secretary Frank L. Polk and other officials.

Washington, D. C. — The nomination of Bainbridge Colby as secretary of state was confirmed late on Monday by the senate.

It was understood that no objection was raised to confirmation of the Colby nomination, which has been the subject of extended secret hearings by the foreign relations committee in the senate. There was no record vote on confirmation.

Senator Lodge, republican leader, and chairman of the foreign relations committee, presented Mr. Colby's name with the favorable recommendation of the committee and Senator Jones, republican, Washington, immediately asked for the vote.

Several republican senators who have been regarded as critics or opponents of Mr. Colby were not present at the session.

Testimony before the foreign relations committee was not made public. Senator Lodge said that publication rested with the committee, which has maintained uniform reticence regarding statements of all witnesses, including the final statement last week of Mr. Colby.

The first business to receive the new secretary's attention will be the issuance of about 4,000 passports that have accumulated since Under Secretary of State Polk ceased to act as secretary.

Reorganization of the department also will be one of the tasks that will confront the new secretary. There are many vacancies among the subordinate offices to be filled, and the office of assistant secretary has been vacant since William Phillips was appointed minister to The Netherlands. Under Secretary Polk will resign as soon as Mr. Colby gets the machinery of the office running smoothly.

Third Assistant Secretary Long is planning to resign soon, in order to give more attention to his candidacy for the senate from Missouri.

By United Press Telegram Wire

Washington — Secretary of State Colby, it was reported today, has prepared a letter to Senator Lodge, chairman of the foreign relations committee, demanding that he make public the evidence heard while the committee was considering confirmation of his nomination as secretary. There were many rumors circulated during this probe of Colby and the secretary wants them cleared away by publication of the evidence, according to this report.

FORWARD WEEK REPORT NEXT THURSDAY NIGHT

"Forward Step" week results will be summarized at a joint meeting of the First Congregational and First Methodist churches to be held at the former Thursday evening, starting at 8:30 o'clock. Captains and visitors will make reports and the tabulated results of the forward steps elected by the constituency given out. It is understood that the movement was highly successful and netted a large return in increased christian consecration, as well as securing expressions of some to join the different churches.

The usual program of classes and conferences held by each church earlier in the evening will not be interfered with. These will be held at the customary time, and both congregations will assemble later to hear the reports of the visitors.

SENIOR CLASS WINS THE SCHOOL SPIRIT TROPHY

The senior class is the winner of the school spirit cup awarded annually to the class at the high school making the best record in the first semester of the school year. The presentation was made by Miss Ada Hahn, chairman of the faculty committee in charge of the contest, to Ralph McGowan, senior class president, at the rhetorical period at the school Tuesday afternoon.

School spirit, scholarship, and promptness in meeting business obligations were the three points on which the cup was awarded. The class numerals, "20," will be inscribed on the cup.

GASOLINE IS GIVEN ANOTHER PRICE BOOST

More bad news.

The price of gasoline was given another boost within the last week and the motoring public is hard to console. Another cent was tacked on the prices and motoring became more of a luxury than ever before.

According to information received today, the Wadhams Oil company is now charging 29.6 cents per gallon for its "low test" gasoline delivered by truck anywhere. The high test gas sells at 39 cents.

Standard oil company prices range from 26.9 cents for Red Crown gasoline, tank wagon delivery, to 29.8 cents for the higher test gasoline in garages. Some variations of these prices exist but they are the average.

ROUTINE BUSINESS AT MEETING OF ROTARY

Routine business took up practically all of the time at the Rotary club meeting Monday noon at the Y. M. C. A. The amendment to the by-laws, raising the dues from $10 to $15 a year, and making them payable May 1 and November 1 was adopted. Reports were heard from H. W. Tuttrup on the Boy Scout movement, and from W. O. Thiede on finances. Joseph Koffend, Jr., secretary of the club, explained the plans for the national convention, which is to be held at Atlantic City, N. J., sometime this summer.

DEPOT WAREHOUSES ARE FILLED WITH FREIGHT

The amount of freight daily arriving in Appleton has increased to such proportions that the railway employees and draymen are having difficulty in keeping pace with it. The shipments of pulpwood have doubled within the last few days and some of the mills are having trouble in unloading the cars as fast as they arrive. The warehouses of both depots are filled with merchandise and the amount daily hauled away by draymen does not appear to make any impression. The outgoing freight is also heavy.

FAMILY DRIVEN OUT BY FIRE IN RUBBISH PILE

Fire broke out at four o'clock this morning in the basement of Edward Fletcher's home on Leminawah street. It is thought to have started from spontaneous combustion in a pile of rubbish. The blaze had reached the first floor by the time the fire department arrived, but was extinguished with chemicals. Intense smoke made it difficult to reach the fire and the family was driven from the house. The loss will probably not amount to more than $100.

BENTON URGES ALL TO MAKE STUDY OF LAW

Homor Benton, well known lawyer of this city, addressed the students of Lawrence college this morning in chapel on the subject of "Preventative Law." He strongly advocated the teaching of the federal and state laws in the schools to acquaint people with them. He claimed that many cases of lawbreaking arise from the fact that people are ignorant of the laws and the prejudice easily grows that laws are unjust and unfair.

ALMOST READY TO START CAMPAIGN TO FINANCE BALL CLUB

RETURN OF MANAGER HARRY
SYLVESTER NEXT WEEK
WILL BE SIGNAL FOR REAL WORK

With the return early next week of Harry Sylvester, manager of the proposed Appleton baseball team, the drive for funds will be launched in earnest, and an attempt made to raise at least $3,000 for grounds and equipment.

It had been expected that arrangements would have been completed sooner, as all the other cities in the Fox River Valley league have their funds raised and organization of their teams under way. The unavoidable absence of the manager has delayed the campaign here, but no trouble is anticipated in assuring the city a worth while baseball team.

In his letter from Melrose, Minn., to Gus Knoll, assistant manager, Sylvester states that teams are being formed in Minnesota with great success. He mentions Hibbing and Eveleth, cities of 8,000 population, where $6,000 has been raised. The mills and mining companies have contributed liberally to their success. In Appleton the manufacturers will also be asked to extend aid, and one return promised is the organization of a factory league which will have the free use of the grounds when the valley nine is playing elsewhere.

Of all the cities in the valley, Appleton is asked to raise the least, because the gate receipts are necessarily larger and the team maintained here comes nearer to financing its own way. The quota desired is $3,000. The nearest to it is New London, where they raised about $4,000. Others have already raised $5,000 and $6,000, and these teams own their grounds. At Menasha, besides contributing to the fund, the Menasha Woodmenware Company offered to fence the field.

It has been necessary to secure a new site here. A suitable field on the car line is held under option but this will have to be fenced, a grand stand erected and other preparations made.

Any voluntary subscriptions that fans desire to make may be paid to L. O. Wissman, cashier of the First National bank, who is secretary-treasurer of the league. The solicitation is expected to start early next week.

Sylvester also mentions in his correspondence that he has a line on several good players. Yesterday Walter Schultz of Milwaukee, a heavy slugger of the old Wisconsin-Illinois League, was in the city and was booked by Knoll for the local team. As soon as the grounds dry out a try-out will be held at Interlake park for the local men who wish to compete for places on the team. A number of players' applications are on file at the present time, but time enough is being taken to secure a bang-up nine to meet the other teams of the valley.

CONVICTED SLAYER TO BE FREED FROM PRISON

By United Press-Land Wire
Racine, Wis.—Prospects today were that George E. Hamilton would be liberated from State's prison where he has been confined since his conviction on a charge of slaying Edward B. Warner. The supreme court recently ruled that the evidence against Hamilton was insufficient and the district attorney today said that no other evidence is now available for another trial.

LIGHT BUGGIES TAKE PLACE OF SLEIGHS

OLD SOL AND FARMERS CO-OP.
BRATE TO CLEAR HIGH-
WAYS OF SNOW—CON-CRETE ROADS OPEN

After one of the longest periods of continuous sleighing in years, the wheels have come to stay. Today the rural mail carriers abandoned their sleighs and got out light buggies with which to make their usual rounds.

The farmer who wants to know how best to get to town will do the same thing, because the mail carrier is his best indication of conditions. That there is a restless anxiety to get out the flivver and go to town at a merry clip is shown by the efforts of a crew working on the Mackville road trying to clear the highway down to the concrete. Old Sol is helping a lot with his warm rays, and graders and plows are doing the rest. If no setback is experienced, Appleton motorists may be able to drive as far as Black Creek with their cars Sunday over the Mackville road. The concrete shows in stretches and the present activity will finish the job.

There is fear, however, that the use of the road before the center ridge of snow is removed, may cut up the shoulder of the road so badly that it will become dangerous. As it is now, the cars cannot keep to the concrete, the side path being partly used, but a continued thaw will relieve the situation.

F. A. Elmgren, manager of the Ashland Paper company, Ashland, is in the city to attend the funeral of the late Peter R. Thom.

WAR CHEST COMMITTEE MEETS THIS AFTERNOON

A meeting of the War Chest organization is called for this afternoon immediately following the funeral of the late Peter R. Thom. Two new members are to be elected, one to fill the place of the deceased, and another to take the place of Stephen R. Stilp, who has resigned because of removing elsewhere. The vacancy of the office of chairman, caused by Mr. Thom's death, will be filled, and another member chosen to the executive committee to take Mr. Stilp's place.

The match billiard team between Walsh and Verstegen and Aul and Allen was won by the former at Carr and Hansen's billiard rooms last night by a score of 100 to 60. The prize was a five dollar box of chocolates.

MUCH BUILDING TO BE DONE IN STATE BEFORE END OF YEAR

STATE INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION PASSES ON UNUSUALLY LARGE NUMBER OF PLANS

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison, Wis.—More building will be done in Wisconsin this year than ever before, according to the Industrial commission which administers the building code and passes upon plans for all public and semi-public buildings. In no previous year have so many building plans been submitted to the commission. This is true especially of plans for theatres and garages and for schools and community houses.

The State Building Code applies to all buildings other than private residences, two-family flat buildings, buildings for agricultural purposes and temporary buildings for construction purposes. Cities may pass local ordinances which make requirements additional to the State Building Code, and this has been done in a number of the larger cities of the state. The Industrial commission has urged cities to establish city building inspection departments. Such departments pass upon all building plans, and the commission is consulted only with reference to special problems in difficult situations. Where there are no city building inspection departments, plans must be submitted to the Industrial commission for all theatres and assembly halls, all schools, apartment houses, hotels, and places of detention, and all large factory buildings.

A new building code has just been issued by the Industrial commission. This makes only minor modifications in the code which has been in force heretofore. The first state building code was adopted in 1914, and this was revised in 1918. In the administration of the State Building Code, the Industrial commission is assisted by an Advisory Building Code Committee composed of Peter Brust, architect, Milwaukee; Allan D. Conover, architect, Madison, (chairman); John H. Findorff, general contractor, Madison; J. E. Florin, superintendent of fire prevention, Industrial Commission, Menomonie, Wis.; Henry A. Foeller, architect, Racine; Arthur A. Gullbert, architect, Racine; Arthur Peabody, state architect, Madison.

SPRAY BEFORE BUDS OPEN FOR OYSTER SHELL SHALE

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison—Oyster shell scale is an insect pest which is responsible for the low producing capacity of many orchards in the state, is capable of control.

"Scale insects like the oyster shell," says C. L. Fluke, entomologist at the College of Agriculture, "can be controlled by spraying the trees just before the buds open, with lime-sulphur solution which may be purchased in small any and every community. Small orchardists generally use a hand or barrel sprayer of some kind, while larger growers find a power sprayer more economical and efficient."

The oyster shell is larger than the San Jose scale, and has the appearance of an oyster shell. It has the widest distribution in Wisconsin of the scale insects, and is found in all parts of the state, particularly in neglected orchards where it seriously affects the vitality of the trees. The present, according to Mr. Fluke, is a good time to look for these fruit tree pests.

Many orchardists in the state and owners of other kinds of trees have confused the San Jose and the oyster shell scale. San Jose, the most destructive of the scale insects, is not as prevalent in Wisconsin as in some other states but it is occasionally found and does great damage.

MARKETING BOARD HAS AMBITIOUS PLAN

NEW COMMISSION IS ASSISTING IN COOPERATIVE BUYING AND WILL MAKE A SURVEY

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison, Wis.—The Wisconsin Division of Markets, created by the last legislature and of which ex-senator Norman Nordman is director, has for some time been thoroughly organized for work and is steadily functioning.

Among the different lines of important work it is carrying forward is that of assisting in the organization of cooperative buying and selling organizations. "This work we consider of high importance," said Director Nordman today, "summing up the many duties imposed on the division, in a few words, I think it may be said that the legislature's intent in creating our department was to in some way bring closer together the producers and consumers of food products in the state. This object we are keeping clearly before us all the time, hence we encourage, wherever possible, the organization of cooperative marketing bodies. Another important duty we are planning to carry out is the establishment of an exchange or central clearing house for important farm products in order that such products be more efficiently distributed. For example, a great many calls come to us asking where dairy cows of the different breeds are available; also where clover seed, feeds, and general livestock may be obtained. We propose to so schedule and classify such information that in time we can promptly inform any prospective purchaser where he can secure his desired products. In this particular we are cooperating with College of Agriculture at the University of Wisconsin."

"Must Know Conditions." "Before attempting any change in present marketing practices it is important to know that existing conditions pertaining to marketing practices and markets be known. Who knows the entire present procedure involved in the marketing of any one of Wisconsin's principal agriculture products? Who is there that knows what effect the size of an organization has upon its business efficiency? How much does the receiver, the broker, the commission man, the wholesaler and the retailer get, and what are the services they perform? What are the total expenses that go to make up the consumer's price?"

"The Division of Markets does not consider the foregoing activities themselves a cure for the evils that people are justly complaining of. These evils go deeper than any remedy in the law will permit this Division to go at the present time. However, one of its duties within the period intervening between now and the next regular session of the legislature will be to examine into the fundamental causes of injustice affecting present-day marketing conditions; to discuss these causes openly through the press and from the platform and to be ready at the proper time with a solution of the problems insofar as a solution is possible within the confines of a single state."

Madison, Wis.—It is expected that the local branch of the United States Federation of Teachers, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, will be permanently organized at the University of Wisconsin this week when the second meeting of the group of professors is held.

At a recent meeting between a dozen University professors and an organizer of the United States Federation of Teachers, the nucleus for a branch in the University was established when Prof. P. M. Dawson was chosen temporary president and Prof. L. M. Hollander, temporary secretary.

The officers and Prof. F. A. Ernst, prominent in the organization, deny that the organization was the result of dissatisfaction over the distribution of the recent salary increases. "It was merely a coincidence that the organizer should come here just after the salary increases were announced," said Prof. Ernst. "He had been expected for some time and we held our first meeting as soon as he arrived." It is expected a constitution will be adopted when the "union" meets this week and a campaign waged for more members.

FEEDING LESSONS FOR WISCONSIN BREEDERS

BEEF PRODUCERS AND SWINE GROWERS INVITED TO CONFERENCE AT MADISON APRIL 3

Madison, Wis.—Wisconsin beef producers and swine growers have been invited to a conference at the stock pavilion and feeding lots of the agricultural experiment station here on April 3. They will be acquainted with the results of important feeding trials carried on during the winter. Steps looking to more economical methods of beef and pork production will be outlined by prominent feeders and officials of the experiment station.

Results will be presented of the trial which has been carried on with 2-year-old steers to determine the relative value of barley versus corn for fattening cattle. Owing to the fact that the barley crop is now available for stock feeding and especially on account of the fact that barley produces more pounds of feed an acre than oats, the station officials and state feeders consider it important to obtain further information concerning the value of barley for fattening cattle.

Several questions have been studied in fattening swine. Among points considered is the relative value of yellow corn and of white corn for feeding. Recent trials with laboratory animals have shown that yellow corn contains a much larger amount of the fat-soluble vitamin than the white corn.

Several lots have been fed to gain information on the feeding value of whey. Pigs have been fed whey plus either corn or barley. Other lots have been fed whey, corn, or barley and in addition various protein-rich concentrates to determine whether whey and corn or barley alone would provide a well balanced ration.

HOUSING PROBLEM IS BIG AT NEW LONDON

New London—Three new industries have been prevented from locating in New London in a short time on account of the lack of housing facilities in the city at present. The situation is becoming more and more serious as the manufacturing concerns are being rushed with orders which they will be hindered in filling on account of the fact that many workmen refuse to locate here because they can find no home for their families. It is impossible to find a vacant house here and almost as impossible to find lodging. The hotels report greater business than ever before and are constantly filled up.

WATER TREATMENT SAVES WORKMAN WHO IS GASED

Marquette—While filling a drum with gas, Charles White, an employee of the Ansel Chemical Co., Marquette, received a slight gassing. The drum exploded, throwing the gas into White's face, who inhaled some of the poison. The same measures that were used when soldiers were gassed overseas were used upon the victim.

RICHEST BANKER IN EUROPE TEACHES THRIFT TO PARIS

WEALTHY MEN AND WOMEN ATTEMPT TO STOP EXTRA-VAGANCE BY CAMPAIGN OF RIDICULE

Paris.—A spectacular lesson was given to extravagant society women on Sunday by Maurice Rothchild, richest banker in Europe; Edmond Blanc, Monte Carlo roulette king, and Andre Fouquieres, noted as Beau Brummel.

This trio astonished the fashionable throng that overflowed the Au-teuil paddock on occasion of the spring Grand Prix by appearing in old-fashioned suits with trousers flayed at the bottoms.

Never before had such a striking contrast been witnessed among the fashionable circles, assembled at the season's first smart meeting, where money apparently was no object, gambling reaching undreamed of proportions, and the extravagance in dress equalling that of Babylon's palmy days.

Frederick Francois Marsal, minister of finance, and reputed to be one of the soundest financiers in France, is said to be encouraging the campaign opened by the noted trio as means of killing by ridicule the extreme extravagance which has been feature of the post-war era.

The Marquis de Ganay is said to be leader of the women's section of this "novel secret society," and M. Rothchild leader of the men's section.

The display of pearls at Auteuil on Sunday surpassed anything seen this year and caused observers to wonder where such wealth was coming from.

Some women paraded about the enclosure wearing strings of pearls worth hundreds of thousands of dollars, hanging down their bare backs, in accordance with the latest fad.

Real pearls taking the place of beads or stones as handbag ornaments are the latest thing. Each pearl costs in the neighborhood of $10,000.

As a protest against the edict barring displays of silk hosiery, several girls appeared without stockings, with the evident purpose of showing that morality was bound to lose by the enforcement of such a law. The richness of their gowns and the wealth of the jewel display afforded an awkward paradox, however.

Bare arms, bare backs, bare legs and clinging dress materials, emphasizing the outlines of the figure, continue to be the principal features of the present fashions, which encourage anything that is rich enough or undressy enough to recall or surpass the gay days of the directorate and the Empress Josephine.

GERMAN INVASION OF RUHR BASIN IS CAUSE OF DEBATE

FRENCH DECLARE THAT MOVEMENT OF TROOPS IS A VIOLATION OF TREATY WITH GERMANY

Paris.—While the different factions in Germany have been locked in contention, the allies have been engaged in rather a warm debate over the German situation. This debate is still in progress. It relates to the Ruhr basin, the scene of spartacist revolts the last three days, and also the source of the coal supply that Germany owes France under the treaty.

The important industrial and mining sections of the Ruhr basin, including Essen, Dusseldorf, Mülheim, Duisburg, Elberfeld and Renscheid, are within the fifty kilometer zone to the east of the Rhine in which, under Article 43 of the treaty, no German force of any kind is permitted.

Foch Orders Advance

Last Tuesday, acting as the inter-allied military chief, Marshal Foch recommended that for the purpose of insuring the coal supply due from Germany and maintaining order, and for the purpose of impressing Germany, the allied forces occupy this section. This recommendation was approved by the French government and sent to the other governments for action.

While it was under consideration the Ebert government, through Charge von Mayer at Paris, transmitted a request that it be allowed to send reichswehr troops into the Ruhr district to put down the spartacists.

England and Italy were favorable to granting this request, but the French government refused, giving as a reason that it did not trust the German government's promise to withdraw the troops as soon as order is restored.

Meanwhile, without awaiting an answer from the allies, the Ebert government, on Friday sent troops into the neutral zone to quell the uprising.

Troops Are Beaten

These troops were beaten at several points, notably Essen, and some fifteen hundred of them took refuge in the British occupied area and were interned. Ebert is reported to be sending reinforcements to the Ruhr district.

The situation is thus complicated. The French hold that the German government in taking measures to suppress the disorder of which Paris complains, violated the treaty. On the other hand, the other allies refused to sanction the steps the French government favored. The leaders of the debate are, of course, Lloyd George on the one side and Millerand on the other. It is not known what turn the debate will take. Marshal Foch and Millerand held a long conference Sunday morning.

The French are very suspicious about the so-called spartacist uprising in the Ruhr district.

SOVIET ARKS ARE OUT OF STYLE IN DEPORTATION

Attorney General Palmer's Spectacular Process is Abandoned and Now Justice of Present Deportation Process is Questioned

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Washington, D. C.—Are the aliens getting justice under our deportation system?

In December and January the Department of Justice agents dumped 6,000 of deportation cases onto the immigration department, claiming that the aliens were undesirable.

The deportations are now going on in a quiet way. There were 300 deported in January—since the "Soviet Ark" sailed for Russia. The record for February isn't complete, but the number will run about the same.

Attorney General Palmer has been capitalizing deportations in his efforts to get the Democratic presidential nomination. Palmer preferred to make deportations spectacular, with a "Soviet Ark." This was more costly than to buy first-class passage for each alien, so the labor officials changed the method.

The deportation process is to throw an alien in jail, then an immigration inspector, who receives $1400 a year, gives him a "trial." If the inspector thinks the alien is undesirable, he recommends to Immigration Solicitor Abercrombie that the man be deported. Abercrombie decides it.

NEW ORLEANS PROMOTER HAS EYE ON CARPENTIER

Tolorch Thinks French Heavyweight Will Sign Up in Spite of Wild Offers by Million Dollar Fight Promoters

By Fred Turbyville
(Special to Post-Crescent)
New Orleans, La.—Dominich Tolorch, New Orleans fight promoter, is coolly confident Georges Carpentier will be seen in a New Orleans ring next December fighting for the heavyweight championship of the world. Daily wire stories concerning the activities of William Fox, Tex Rickard, Charles Cochran and other promoters are not bothering him in the least.

He has made his proposition to Dempsey and to Carpentier and he has nothing to add.

"If they fight for me they'll fight on a percentage basis," he said. "We'll enlarge our arena to a capacity of 25,000 and that will be sufficient. The prices will be reasonable. Few fans want to pay over $25 for a seat."

Tolorch is not in sympathy with the money-mad trend of the times among the promoters. He can't see these million-dollar propositions.

He has plenty of money to put the fight over. He is in partnership with "Cad" Bryan, famous race track owner, has the Jefferson Park track at New Orleans, the Bowie track in Maryland and the Thorndell track in Canada. Bryan has plenty of money.

Tolorch already has a huge arena which will seat close to 15,000. "New Orleans is the ideal place for the fight," he said. "The thousands of people of French descent will flock to the arena if Carpentier fights. He'll have plenty of backing."

"December is the ideal time to hold the fight. The racing will be on, too, so the visiting sportsmen will have plenty to occupy their time."

"I have the verbal promise of Dempsey and feel sure of Carpentier. A verbal promise is as good with me as the signatures some of the other promoters are said to have."

GAS STAMPEDE IS DRAWING COIN NOW

PEOPLE OF COUNTRY ARE LURED BY FLAMBOYANT ADVERTISING OF PROFITS FROM GAS WELLS

(Special to Post-Crescent)

McKeesport, Pa.—Would you risk $28,000,000 to win $2,250,000? Most people wouldn't—even in a horse race. That's what people are doing in the McKeesport gas field, according to George H. Ashley, Pennsylvania state geologist.

Thousands of people all over the country, lured by flamboyant advertising, are pouring their savings into nearly 300 gas companies in McKeesport.

Even optimistic boosters say there are only 35 producing wells, many of them mediocre. Geologist Ashley says there were only 17 deserving the name of producing wells a month ago.

Many people made a lot of money in the first gas gushers in the McKeesport field six months ago. Few are making much now.

Everywhere in McKeesport are cardboard signs—This & That Gas Company offering a last chance to buy stock. Two millinery stores are selling gas stock as well as hats. A florist shop and a butcher shop are selling stock.

In Snake Hollow is a forest of derricks, peopled by a horde of eager, anxious-eyed men, drilling and hoping.

Sam Brendel, not so long ago working for $80 a month in the city surveyor's office, made $10,000 the first month on the big gusher that started the McKeesport gas stampede. He did it on an investment of $25. David Foster, a furniture dealer, did the same thing. They, with some partners, were in on the ground floor.

Geologist Ashley says the gas pool is two-thirds exhausted. He places the total capacity at 15 billion cubic feet. Some say its less. More than twelve times as much gas is necessary to balance the $28,000,000 estimated investment.

Cocconut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multisided cocconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One of two reasonableness will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multisided cocconut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

HINT ON TREATY IS EXPECTED IN MICHIGAN VOTE

PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY IN WOLVERINE STATE MAY TELL WHICH WAY WIND IS BLOWING.

Washington, D. C.—Political leaders, uncertain as to how far the treaty dispute will become a factor in the presidential election, expect to obtain some hint as to sentiment upon this subject in the Michigan presidential primary, which will be held on April 5.

Thus, as well as the labor issue, promises to show itself in the election there, which will be preceded by an intense campaign with the treaty issue uppermost.

As it happens, every angle of the treaty dispute is represented by different candidates enlisted in the primary there.

Palmer Follows Wilson.

Among those in the democratic race is A. Mitchell Palmer, who has announced that his platform is identical with that of President Wilson, insisting upon the ratification of the treaty without the interpretive reservations. Herbert Hoover, who recently urged that the treaty should be ratified with the Lodge amendments, is in the race, although he announced, as did Mr. McAdoo, that he did not desire pledged delegates.

Mr. McAdoo, representing the radical element in the democratic party and standing for the demands of labor, also appears in the Michigan democratic fight. The vote that will be accorded Mr. McAdoo in the Michigan election, in the opinion of democratic politicians, will not show the drift on the treaty, but will rather define the sentiment as to whether the electorate desires a man who represents more radical views on industrial relations and matters generally than Mr. Palmer or Mr. Hoover.

Four G. O. P. Men in Race.

Mr. McAdoo is reported to have been in accord with President Wilson

In the treaty fight, and is said to have expressed his opinion for ratification of the treaty with interpretive reservations only.

In the republican column are found Gov. Lowden, a conservative on labor matters, who will accept the view of the republican senate on the treaty; Gen. Wood, standing on the same platform as Gov. Lowden on the treaty, but supporting universal military training, to which Gov. Lowden is opposed, is fighting most strenuously for the preference in Michigan. Senators Johnson and Poindexter, represent the irreconcilables, who exerted every influence to defeat the treaty.

Although active steps to declare a state of peace by congressional resolution are not expected until late this week, republican leaders of the senate and house are to begin conferences on Monday on the exact form such a declaration should take.

HIGH WAGES FORCE FARMERS TO REDUCE GROWING ACREAGE

FORMER STATE SENATOR CULBERTSON TELLS HOW WAGE DEMANDS AFFECT PRODUCERS

Many residents of the county are not figuring how they can reduce the high cost of farming and have about come to the conclusion that the only way they can do it is by curtailing their produce. Quite a number have already disposed of a portion of their cows, and it is understood that the acreage of grain this season will be considerably less than last year or during the war.

"The wages demanded by farm hands this spring will make it necessary to take some such action," said H. M. Culbertson of Medina, former state senator from this district, while in Appleton yesterday. "An experienced man called on me several days ago seeking work for the summer. When I questioned him as to the amount of wages he was asking he informed me that he would not consider anything less than $75 per month, which included board, lodging, laundry and a few small concessions."

"I informed him that there was nothing doing. Conditions are too uncertain to bank much on prices and should they decrease, as they are liable to, we would not be able to pay our expenses. As for myself I intend to get along with as little help as possible. This means, a curtailment in acreage of all crops and also in farm produce generally, but that is the only course I can pursue and even then I am not sure of my footing as storms and droughts and unfavorable weather conditions have to be taken into consideration."

When questioned about the crops to be raised this summer, Mr. Culbertson stated that more sugar beets than ever would be raised in the county this summer. The crop last year was quite profitable which made it possible for representatives of Wisconsin sugar factories to secure a large acreage for the coming season. The acreage of cabbage and potatoes will be about the average, Mr. Culbertson said. The cabbage crop last year was greatly damaged by stump rot, and while farmers realized fairly well on the yield on account of the high price they are not anxious to take any chances this year. A large portion of the potato crop has been disposed of at a good price and it is expected that the amount still in the county will be unloaded before there is much of a drop in price.

A woman's chance of marriage is greatest between the ages of 20 and 25 years, when 52 per cent of the marriages take place.

WOMAN SEEKS CLEW TO OWN IDENTITY

REMEMBERS BEING KIDNAPED WHEN YOUNG AND STILL ENDEAVORS TO KNOW REAL NAME

By Mabel Abbott
(Special to Post-Crescent)

Kansas City, Mo.—"Who am I?" asks Mrs. Lizzie Huffman. She is searching the United States for some clew to her own identity. She knows that she was kidnaped when she was a small girl. Back of that she knows nothing.

She may be the solution of some half-century-old mystery, long ago given up by the police, like that of Charlie Ross.

Mrs. Huffman lives at Wichita, Kan. She thinks she is about 50 years old. Her first recollection is of a pleasant home in a city. She remembers that one day she went to church with her father and mother.

The church was decorated with flowers and she wore a white dress and white shoes.

When they came home, she went out on the front porch to get her doll. A man stepped up and threw a black cloak over her head.

"I kicked and cried as he carried me away," she says. "After a short trip we came to some water. Another man met us, and they fought for me. I was dropped to the ground, scrambled out of my coverings, and watched them fight. I shall never forget it."

"The second man gained possession of me and took me for a long trip on the train, to a place where there was snow on the ground. It was the first snow I had ever seen, which makes me believe I was stolen from some southern city."

The child lived for some time with an Ohio family named Barnes—she does not know where. They told her they would never tell her who she was.

"There were other children there who did not belong to the Barneses," she says, "and I believe they must have made a practice of kidnaping children."

The girl married, and has grown children of her own. For the last 30 years she has been trying to learn something of her people.

"Sometimes," she says, "the feeling comes to me that now I may find out something; and then I drop everything, even if I am in the middle of a day's work and go. My children beg me to forget the past and settle down, but I cannot. I cannot rest until I know who I am."

OFFICERS URGE THAT DEAD BE LEFT BURIED IN FRANCE

(Special to Post-Crescent)

By Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan
I am one of those who believe that the families of the dead should, in their own interests, decide not to permit the removal from France of the remains of the bodies of our soldiers.

My attitude is one of solicitude, based upon knowledge of the conditions affecting the interment of bodies in battle and my belief is that in the event of wholesale removal many errors will occur which can only add greatly to the existing sorrow of the families.

The bodies of soldiers killed in battle or who died behind the lines were not embalmed. In many cases bodies were shattered by shell fire at the time of or subsequent to death. The remains were interred in relatively shallow graves, without caskets or other containers. They have been buried, in most cases, for at least a year and a half, with results that must be apparent.

DECLARES PRESENT PRICES CAUSE LOSS TO FARMERS

Janesville.—Contradicting the common belief that the farmers are somewhat responsible for the high cost of living, R. T. Glasco, county agent, declares the farmers instead of keeping the costs of food and clothes up are actually losing money at the rates for which they sell their products.

"The question which puzzles the farmer," declares Mr. Glasco, "is why the price of retail products which he produces does not go down when he is constantly receiving a lower price. He does not see why the consumer is not given the benefit of his loss."

In addition, says the county agent, the farm labor situation is getting so serious many farmers are reducing their output.

Nearly 100,000 licenses have been issued so far this year and Alex Cobban, motor license clerk in the office of the secretary of

WHIP STILL IN USE FOR LAW BREAKERS

DELAWARE IS THE ONLY STATE WHERE BARBAROUS PUNISHMENT IS STILL USED FOR OFFENDERS

By James Henle
(Special to Post-Crescent)

Wilmington, Del.—The whipping post has been abolished in Delaware, but whipping still remains. Instead of strapping offenders to a post, they are forced to stand against a wall, with their hands outstretched on either side.

Delaware is the only state in which this barbarous and brutalizing form of punishment still is permitted. In other states it was abolished long ago, not only through feelings of ordinary humanity toward criminals, but also because of the degrading effects upon the men forced to administer the lashing. But in Delaware even the pillory was abandoned only recently.

Here are the various felonies punishable by whipping, and the number of strokes that the law provides for each:

Horse-stealing—Twenty lashes. Larceny—Not more than 20 lashes. Arson in second degree—Not more than 20 lashes.

"I kicked and cried as he carried me away," she says. "After a short trip we came to some water. Another man met us, and they fought for me. I was dropped to the ground, scrambled out of my coverings, and watched them fight. I shall never forget it."

Burning a court-house where official records are kept—Sixty lashes. House-breaking—Twenty lashes. Highway robbery—Twenty lashes. Wife-beating—Not more than 30 lashes.

Attempt to ravish—Thirty lashes. In addition to the whipping, the offenses are also punishable by imprisonment.

Though most of the statutes merely provide penalties for the various offenses with no provision that they shall not be inflicted upon women, public opinion even in Delaware will no longer permit the lashing of women.

A majority of the offenders to be punished in that manner are negroes, but the white men suffer it as well. The whippings usually take place at the end of each court term or, if the terms last more than one week, the whippings occur at the end of each week. They are administered by the wardens of the jail.

"The curious nature of the law of Delaware is that it makes no distinction between grand and petty larceny; the theft of a loaf of bread by a hungry man is technically as serious a crime as the stealing of $5,000 by a hardened criminal. There is nothing in the law to prevent a judge from sentencing the former to be lashed on the bare back with a cat-o-nine-tails made of leather thongs."

"I do not see anything brutal about our form of punishment," former Judge J. Frank Ball, counsel for and a member of the County Workhouse Commission, said to me. "The men are not beaten severely, for the strokes do not draw blood. No man who came to see one of the whippings and who was unprejudiced could find anything to object to in them."

"I do not know of any movement to abolish whipping, and I do not know any citizens who would favor such a thing. We feel that we know what we are doing, and we don't want outsiders to dictate to us."

state, stated today that he is handling about 3,500 applications a day, shipping the licenses and plates out immediately. It is estimated more than 250,000 auto licenses will be issued in 1920.

Ski-jumping has been evolved into a summer pastime by an American who has constructed an inclined platform, which is maintained in a slippery condition by bath of soap and lard. Zest is added to the slide by a jump of twenty-five feet over an open gap in the incline.
